Good day

Please note this serves to confirm I have no objections to Sazi moving to your medical aid.

I acknowledge I have failed as you have stipulated with doctor Pillay, from now on you are free to elect, at your own expense a doctor suitable as per your standards as the primary parent with the choices and privileges to do so .

I will notify medihelp to remove him, please specify the amount I am obligated to pay from January going forward.

Hi

Just seeing this now.

This is not about you failing - you have no control regarding what your Doctor does. As parents I was having a discussion re the fact that what the Dr did is not working and I'm worried - you're blowing this way out of proportion.

If you'd rather he be on my medical aid that's fine with me. Please confirm date he needs to be on my medical aid.

When you say amount you need to pay you're referring to medical aid contribution for him?

Kind Regards

I'm confused,

You are the one who is neither happy nor patient enough to allow a treatment to take its course.

I'm not the one to confirm anything but nguwe who must tell me if I should remove him from medihelp or not based on your putting him on your medical aid.

Again I must repeat how pathetic I find having this conversation, since there's no problems you create them! You have a child who has his father willing to ensure his medical wellbeing. Instead of working with that you create problems, I know this because despite the supposed issues you had his script was still in the bag the last time I checked. You hadn't taken him to your own doctor at your own expense seeing you were so concerned.

So, should I remove him or not? I'll even risk carrying the penalty of him double insured by waiting until he is on your medical aid should you choose.

I pretend to be patient enough to entertain these theatrics, pretence has a timeframe, as does everything.

Regards,
Salatiso
